Judith Basin County

Located in central Montana, Judith Basin County is Montana's 43rd most populous with 2,329 residents, according to the 2000 Census.

Stanford, the county seat, is the state's 85th largest city with a population of 454. According to the Montana Almanac, by authors Andrea Merrill and Judy Jacobson, the county was established in 1920. The Judith River was named in 1805 by Captain William Clark in honor of his cousin Miss Judith Hancock. The area is renowned for its Yogo sapphires. Wheat and cattle production are important area industries. There's debate on the naming of Stanford. The almanac authors say it was named for either Major James T. Stanford of Great Falls, or for Stanfordville, New York, hometown of early rancher J. E. Bower.

According to the U.S. Bureau of the Census, median income for Judith Basin County households in 1997 was $26,198. The county is 1,870.7 square miles in area; 1,869.9 square miles in land area and .8 in inland water area.

County residents experience the four distinct seasons. According to the Western Regional Climate Center, the average minimum temperature in Stanford in January between 1961 and 1990 was 11.8 degrees above zero. The average maximum temperature in July was 82.1 degrees above. The annual precipitation during the same period was 15.55 inches and the growing season was from June 4 to Sept. 15 (last and first frost).

PLEASE NOTE: Because of time and budget constraints, we are only able to update our county fliers periodically. Individual tables are updated on a more frequent basis. You can call us if you'd like the most current information for a particular county. The Annual Averages for County Employment By Industry are updated annually, usually in June. The Top Employers are updated annually. Per Capita Income statewide is usually released late spring. Population data for Montana is released in late December and county data in March. The Annual Average Labor Force information is benchmarked annually and numbers available before March. The other tables contain Census information and will be updated every 10 years. You can also look for more current information on our website listed on the front of this publication.
